Dr. Lester H. Clee
Acting President
Bloomfield College and Seminary

Dr. Lester H. Clee has been with us at the college for only a brief period, but during this time we have noted many changes and improvements. There is a new spirit of success and optimism and, at the present time, a definite feeling of getting somewhere.

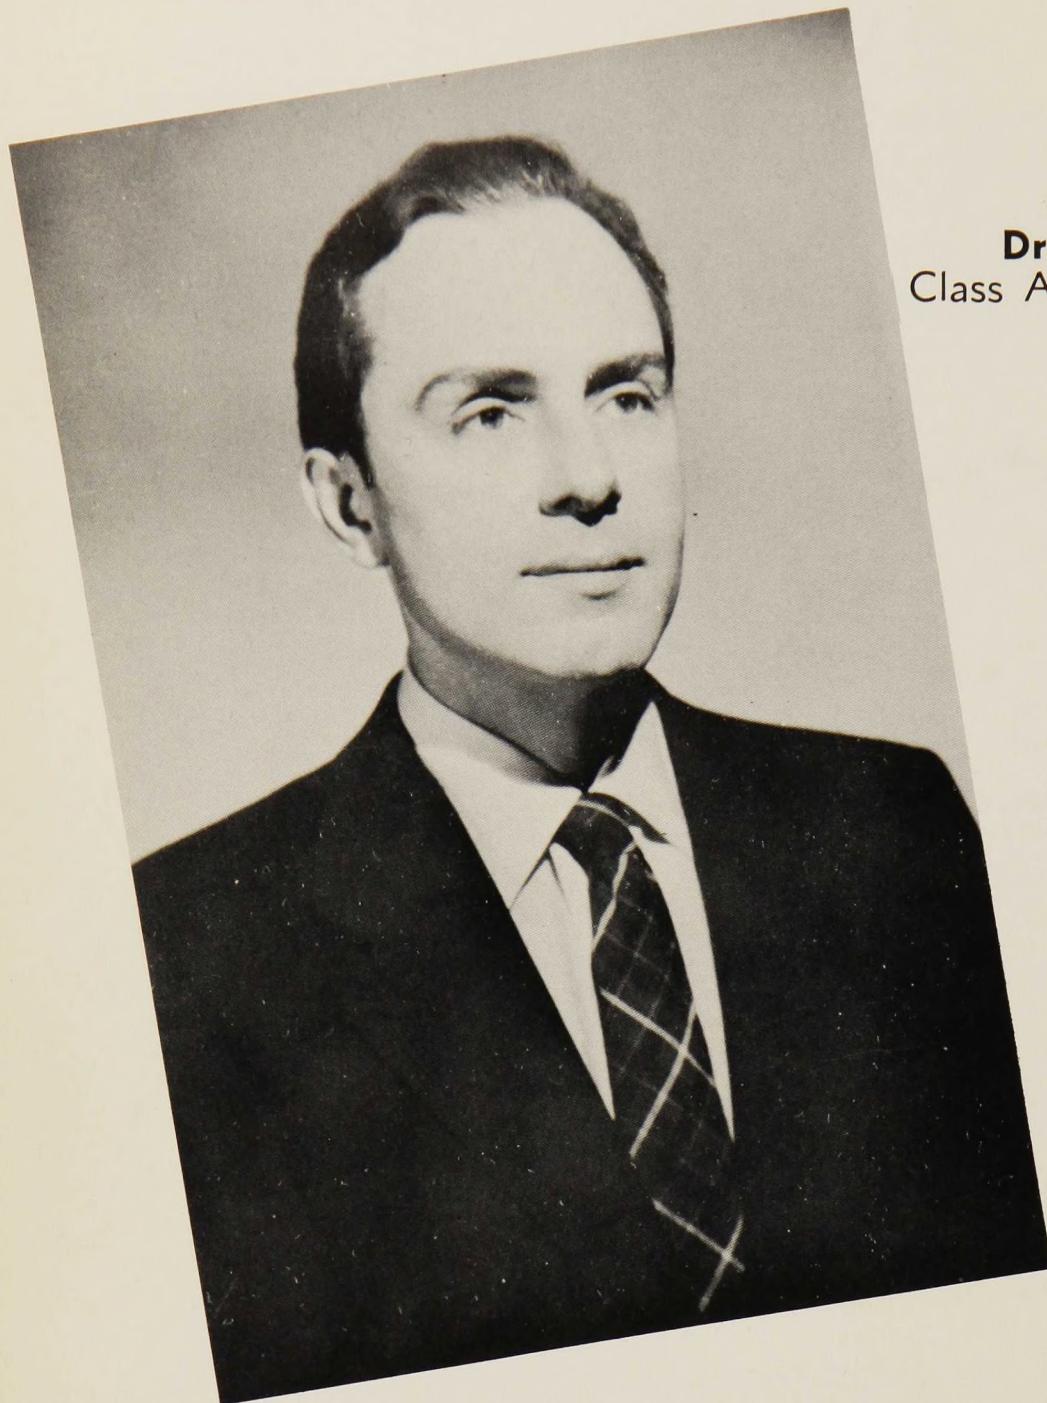

Dr. Clee's life has touched many people and has been constructive in many important endeavors. A man of courage and assurance, he is not one who steps aside when trouble appears. He is a leader who can stand up for a man's right for a clean government, a place of worship and the right of an education.

All at Bloomfield College have discovered that Dr. Clee is never too busy to say hello or even to joke with students, no matter what the circumstances are. Whenever a student has a problem, he can always be certain of Dr. Clee's help and encouragement. Mr. Clee, as he wishes to be called, has long fought to keep Bloomfield College alive and he continues that effort as our Acting President.

It has been a privilege and an honor to have Dr. Clee here as our President, and we realize that we are leaving behind not just a casual administrative acquaintance, but a true friend of Bloomfield College.

Class Advisor

Class Advisor Of Class Of 1960

Dr. George E. Jones, Jr., advisor for the Class of 1960, came to Bloomfield College in 1956. Before this he had taught in high school and at Russell Sage College. Dr. Jones's experience has included play direction for scholarship funds, military service in the Far East, the organizing of a Chinese Sunday School, and the teaching of remedial English, journalism and various courses in composition and literature.

Among his many activities, Dr. Jones has been associated with organizations whose concern is for the betterment of conditions for the American Indian. A member of several literary societies, he is Vice-President of the Chaucer Guild. His campus activities have included the chairmanship of the non-Academic Affairs Committee (which he held for three years) and his membership on the Library Committee. He has recently been appointed Chairman of the Division of the Humanities.

Dr. Jones has blended these experiences together with his personality, making the ideal critic and advisor for the Class of 1960.

In Dedication

It is a gratifying privilege for us to be able to dedicate our yearbook to a person who has helped and guided many of us through our years at Bloomfield College. We wish this dedication to represent our sincere gratitude for the help so willingly given and the friendship so freely expressed. Students have found through the years that this scholarly gentleman is always more than ready to share with them his vast wealth of knowledge.

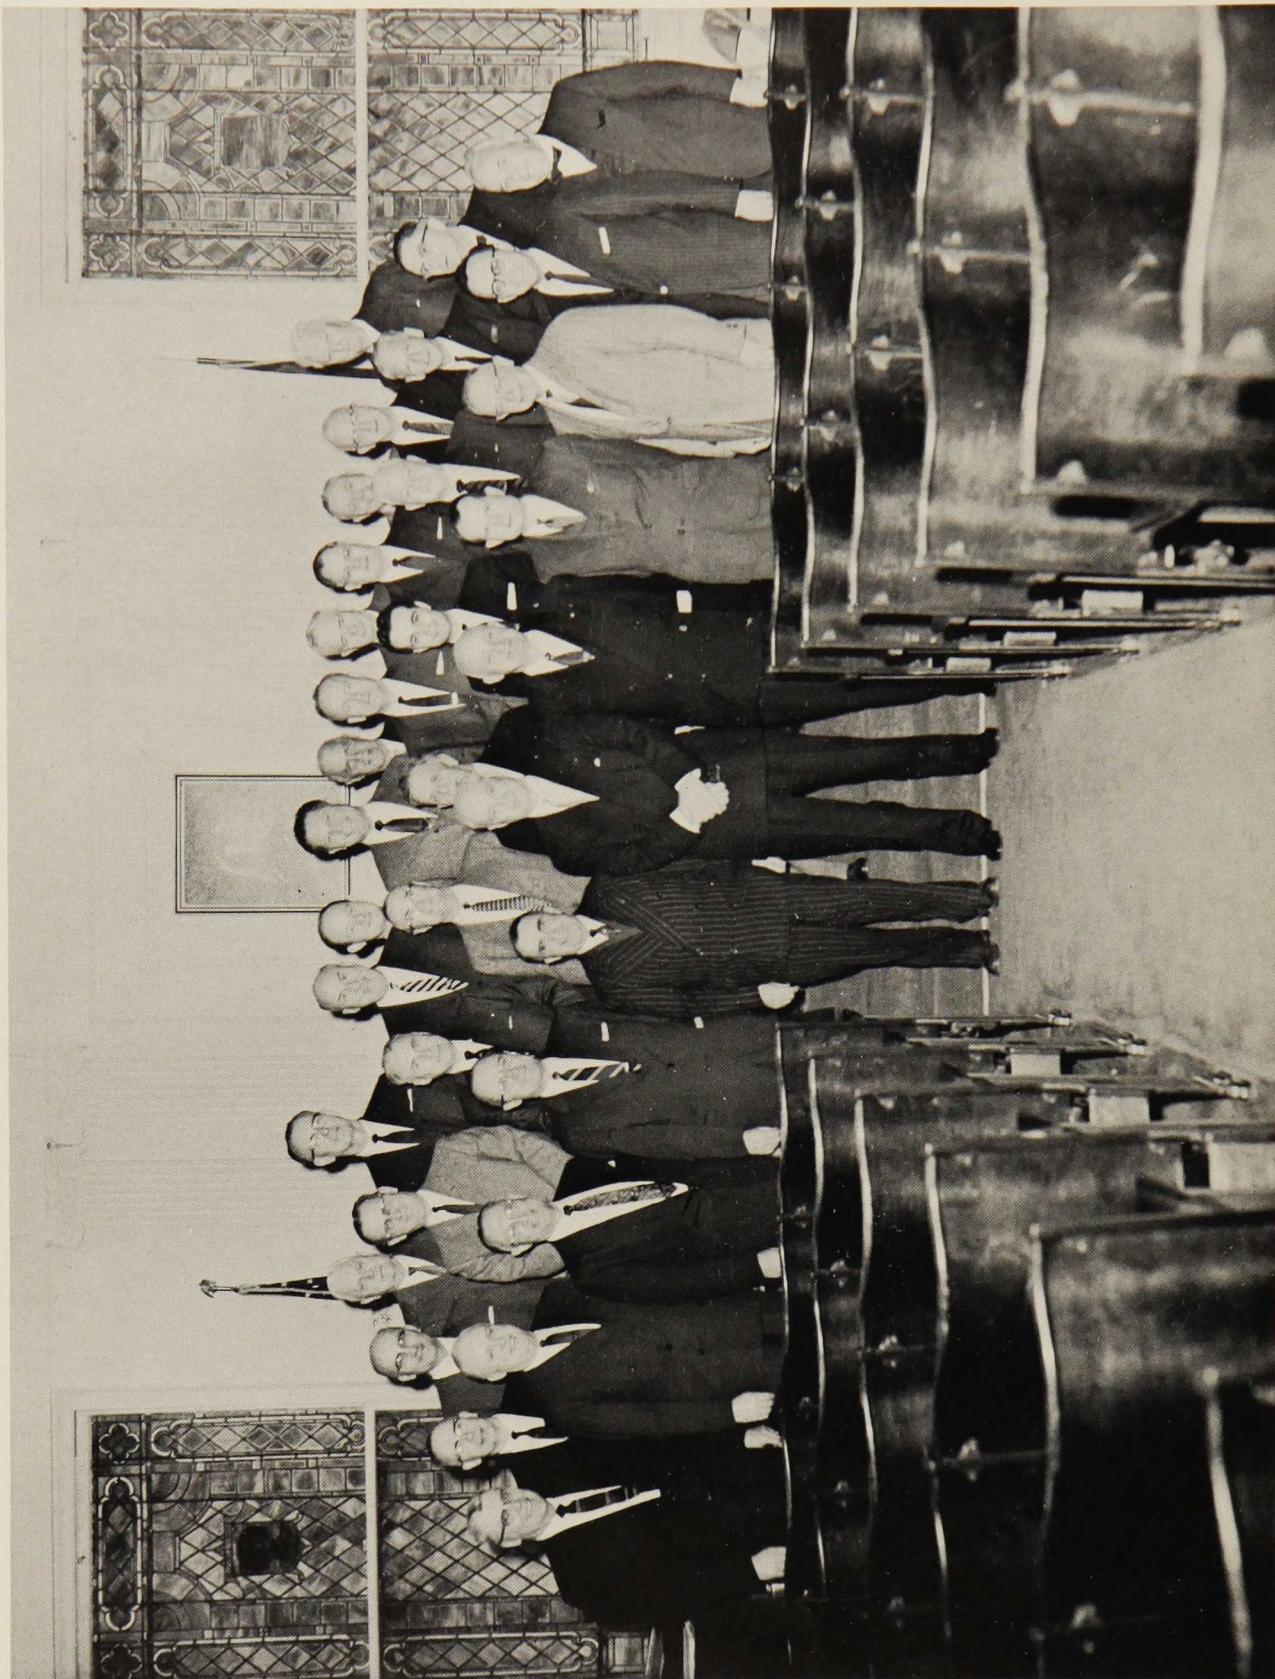

For us who are leaving, it will be impossible to forget his friendly greetings, his philosophic comments and his warm smile. It is difficult to realize that when we leave this college we will not be meeting him daily as he walks from building to building on the campus.

This man has given most of his life to Bloomfield College—to be exact, thirty-four years of dedicated teaching here. For us his name will always remain an inspiration, a symbol of learning and friendliness, and, therefore, we of the Class of 1960 dedicate our yearbook to Dr. John Tron.

RAY WISE

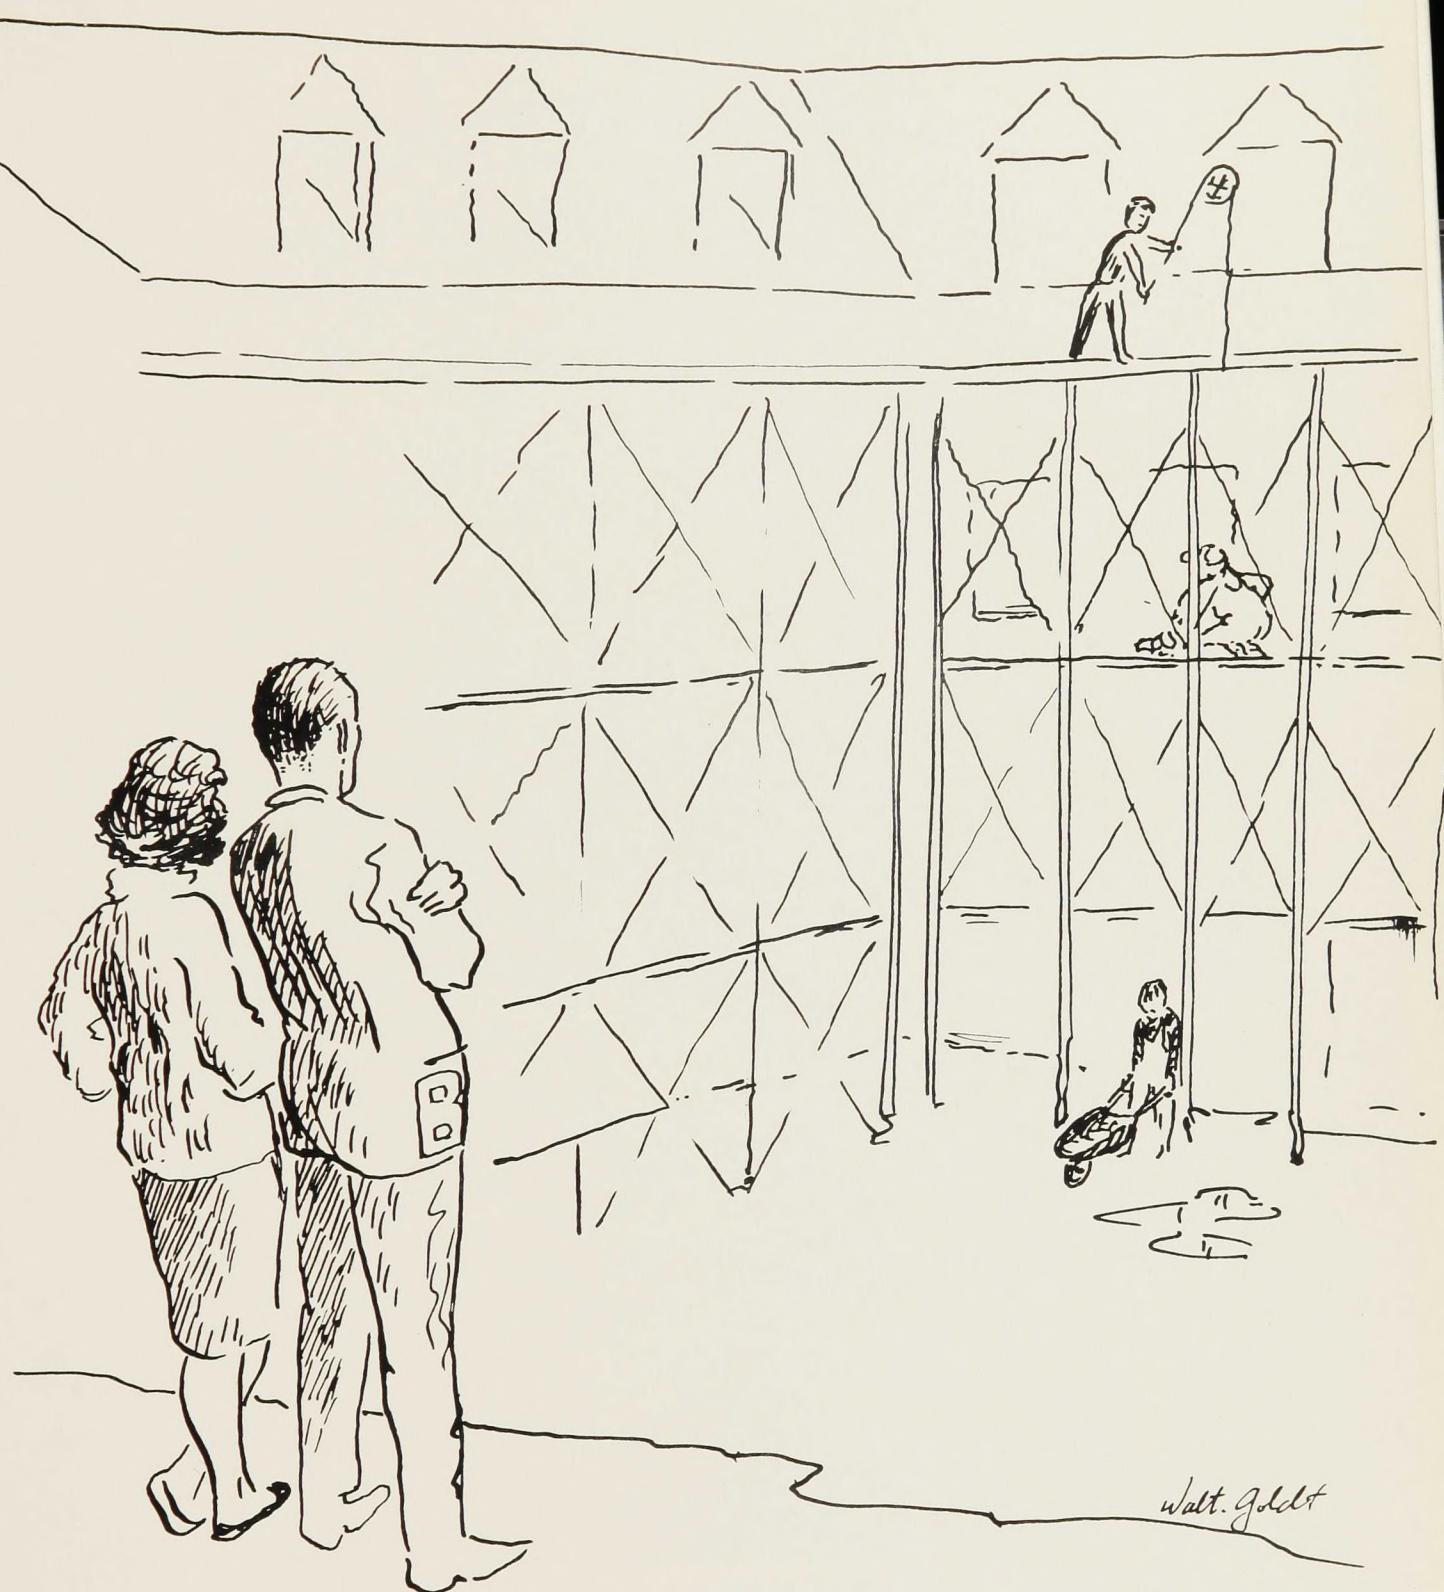

Those who know Ray well, admire him for his quiet and serious attitude. Although a hard working student, he has taken time out from his studies each year to help with our musical and dramatic productions as a valuable backstage man. Ray's ambition is to become an effective minister and with his determination and drive we predict success.

JUNIORS

J. Siano

The Junior Class is now on the brink of the most important year of college life. The class has shown over the last three years that it is very capable of handling the last one with ease.

This year under the leadership of David Kirk the class ordered and received the class rings. This has always been the great event of any junior class.

The class is now planning for a dance to be given in the spring.

Sophomores

The Sophomore Class has an air of carnival time about it. A lot of time and work has gone into this project and it looks from here to be a great success.

The officers of the class are very active in other affairs and have proven to be a great asset to both their class and Bloomfield College. This class has come a long way since those dark days of initiation and being looked on as "Freshmen." The class as a whole and as individuals can hold their heads high in pride for accomplishments.

Class of 1962

The officers of the Sophomores are Arthur McCleary, president; John Cosby, vice-president; Paula Loeb, secretary; and Howard Parker, treasurer. The three senate representatives are John Ewald, Richard Kreig, and Thomas Patterson. The Sophomore class has the distinction of having the highest attendance at the Senate meetings.

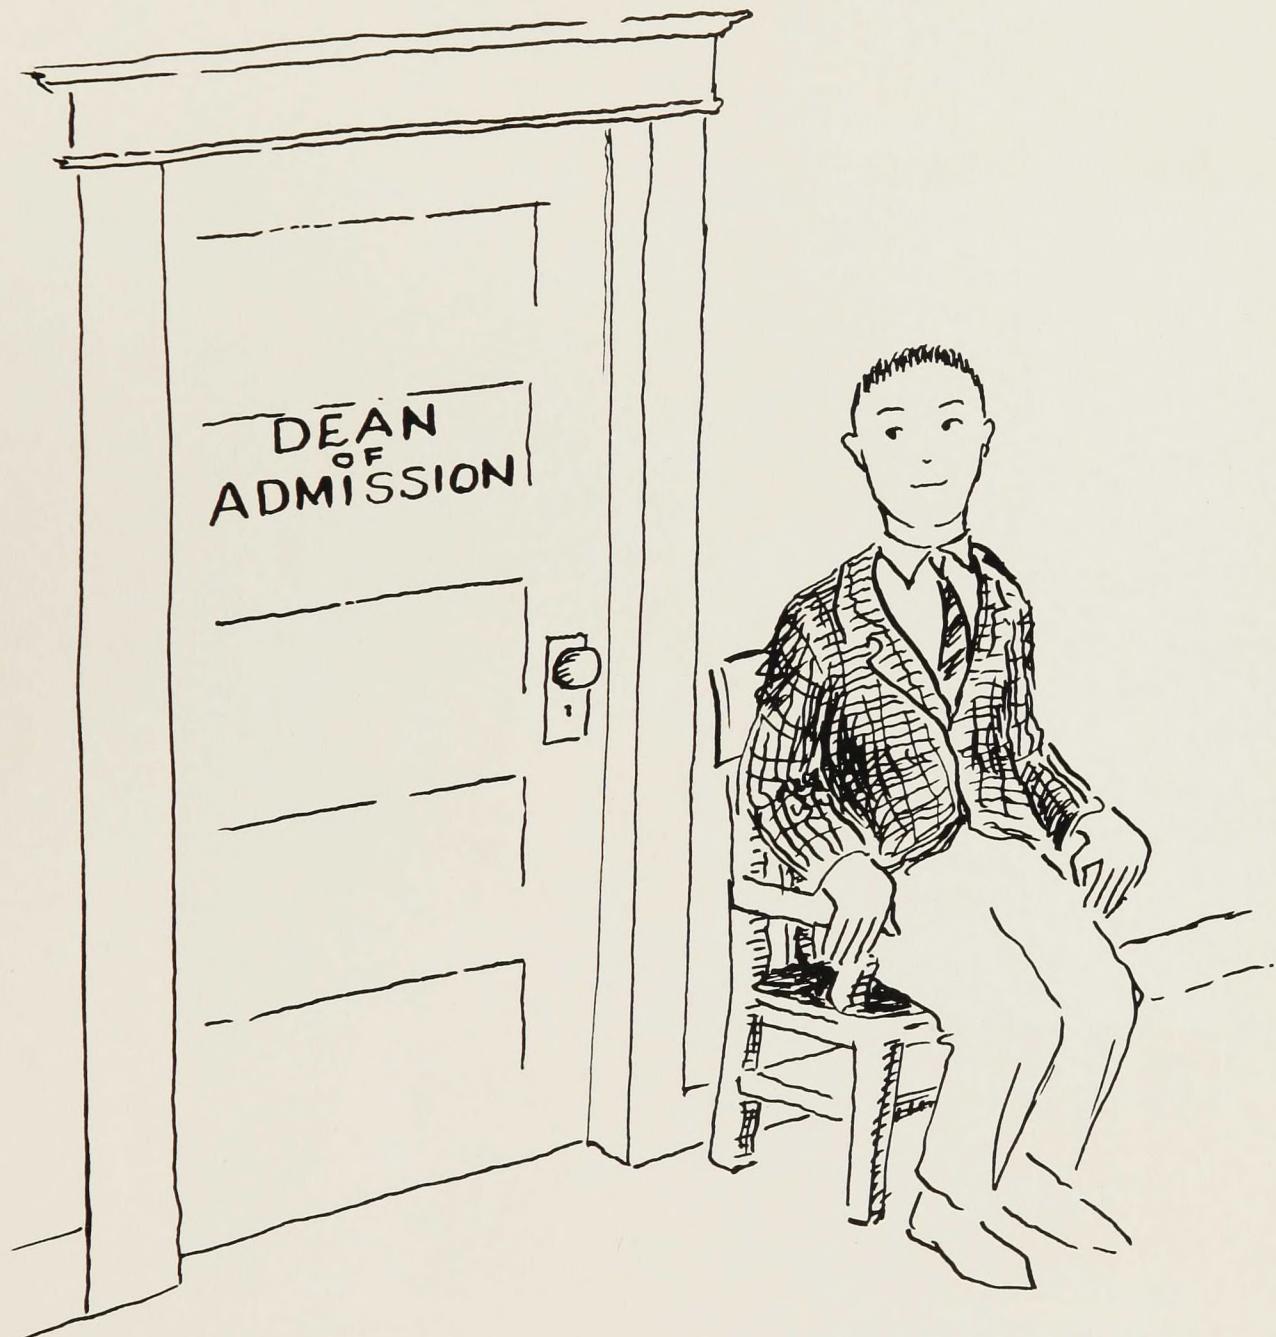

The Sophomores started the school year by conducting the initiation of the Freshman class in an orderly and enthusiastic manner. This program was conducted by Paul Boger, Art McCleary, and Ron Snyder. The Freshmen responded with eager spirit to the demands of the Sophomore class, under whose direction a cheer-song was composed. The soccer team received active support and cheering, and the upperclassmen were entertained by the Freshmen on two big evenings. This program set the school year in motion with renewed enthusiasm.

This class of '62, which considers itself blessed with thinking students, planned something else new and exciting. Instead of the usual class dance, a Carnival Night was created. It consisted of games, specialty acts, skits, dancing, and the expected carnival fanfare. It was open to the students from other colleges as well as our own. This year the class of '62 made its mark.

The successful completion of the Spring semester is many things to many students. For the senior, this means the fruition of four years of hard work and study — Graduation. To the freshman, this means that he has "made the grade." This semester brings to an end the first year we have been oriented to college life. We have, each of us, recognized our own academic potentiality.

It has not been all work though. Our school athletic teams, social organizations—Adelphos and Tau Alpha Kappa and extracurricular activities have given us fun and happy memories.

Financially, we're in the black. Our refreshment concession, open at all home basketball games, was a financial success and the Freshman-Sophomore class Carnival this spring was both socially and financially a triumph.

We, the class of '64 have enjoyed, benefited and grown intellectually and spiritually these past two semesters and look forward to next year with optimism.

Editorial

The staff of the "Saga 1960" have worked very hard to produce for the senior class and the student body a yearbook. We have done the best job we could under the circumstances that will always be an obstacle. We got off to a late start and ran into many things we had to hurdle but which we overcame with ease. It has been a pleasure to work with the staff.

The Bloomfield College Student Association seeks to promote understanding, representation and cooperation among the students, the faculty, the administration and the public. It aims to provide support and to encourage social and other extracurricular activities of benefit to the student and the College.

This student organization endeavors to encourage democratic procedures and independent thought and action. Its operation is free of advisoryship although Dean Calkins is often asked for guidance. The responsibilities of the various offices train individuals in social growth as they learn to face responsibilities and meet obligations to the student body, thus gaining insight for the larger society in which they must learn to live after graduation.

Minuteman

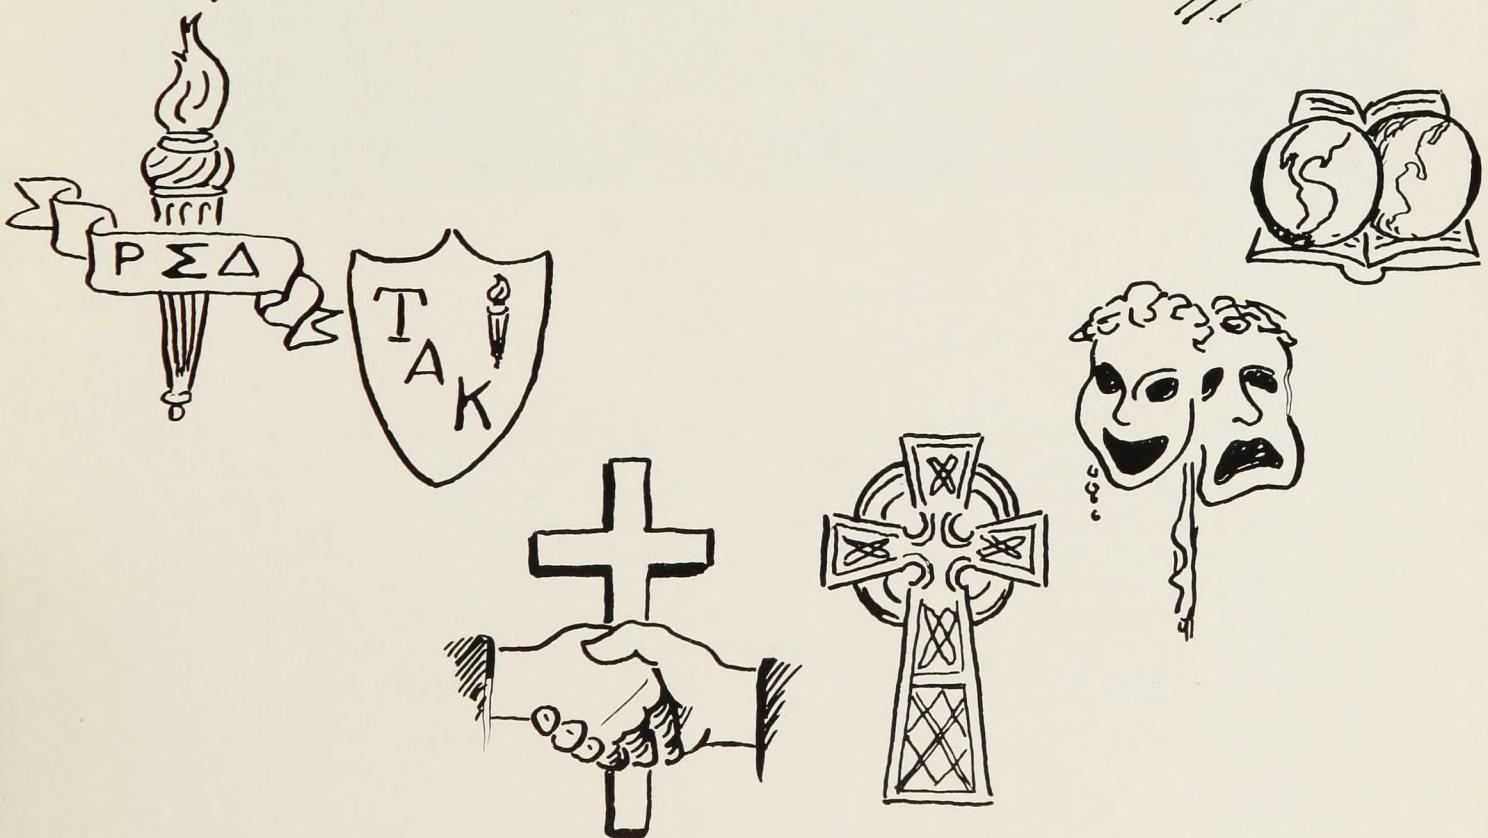

The presses are never still for the staff of the Minuteman, as they are always looking for news. We of the "Saga" know what it is like to meet deadlines and copy dates and so we can sympathize with them.

The newspaper is a vital organ in the American way of life and is mightier than the sword. The Minuteman has shown often this year to be just that. Dr. Richie has been a great help in forming future journalists for both the college and the nation.

Clubs

Chi Rho

Chi Rho consists of students who have chosen the vocation of the ministry of Christian Education. Meetings are held either in the evening or for luncheon, whereby the members may engage in fellowship and hear speakers who are secured to aid and encourage them in reaching their goals. A highlight of each year is a retreat sponsored by Chi Rho and Christian Fellowship, whereby students are enabled to renew their spiritual convictions in a worshipful environment. A main activity is the training and to lead special youth group meetings. Through this endeavor they are able to gain experience in the work to which they will be dedicating their lives.

Christian Fellowship

The Bloomfield College Christian Fellowship is a chapter of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. I.V.C.F. is an international organization comprised of Christian students meeting together in the name of Christ.

Christian Fellowship endeavors to carry the spirit of Christianity into its programs and into the campus life. During the past year, there were speakers, and discussions on such topics as: The Book of Revelations and The Philosophy of Protestantism, The Psychology of Religious Experience, The Reformation. One inspiring message was presented by Dr. Clee. The Christian Fellowship also co-sponsors an annual retreat with the Chi-Rho club. The Rev. Mr. John E. Slater serves as faculty advisor and also opens his home for the meetings.

Rho Sigma Delta

Rho Sigma Delta, which is better known as Adelphos, is a fraternity made up of persons interested in serving Bloomfield College as well as their community in whatever way possible.

In the last two years they have given books and pamphlets to the library as well as erecting a sign in front of the gym. The fraternity was founded on the three principles of service, Christian friendship and brotherhood. The aim of the organization is to promote these principles among the student body.

Tau Alpha Kappa

Tau Alpha Kappa is a club-fraternity on campus comprised of sports-inclined and sports-minded students. The purpose of Tau Alpha Kappa is to assist in the promotion of the betterment of sports in Bloomfield College. Its existence contributes greatly to campus activities.

The regular meetings of Tau Alpha Kappa occur every two weeks in Seibert Hall where club business, projects, and social affairs are discussed. During the course of the academic year Tau Alpha Kappa sponsors bus rides to "away" basketball games, dances, and social get-togethers. In the Bloomfield College gym hangs the Tau Alpha Kappa plaque which is awarded to the most versatile player of each academic year.

International Relations Club

Students from the foreign language classes form the International Relations Club. This organization aims to promote understanding and good will among nations and it encourages students to improve understanding of current events through films and lectures. In September, the president Frank Di Sessa represented the group at a conference of the collegiate council for the United Nations. Plans for an all day meeting in the spring were formulated.

To help celebrate World Refugee Year, a United Nations speaker was invited, as part of the College Lecture Series, under the auspices of the club. The group has also set up a fund to aid refugees throughout the world. During the spring semester a film series on the life and customs in various countries throughout the world was shown.

Aiding Frank Di Sessa in making this year's International Relations Club Program an interesting and successful one, were vice-president, Alan Grossman; secretary, Joy Goodman and Treasurer, Anthony Candelmo.

Boosters

The Boosters are largely made up of cheerleaders and athletics-minded people. The purpose of this group is to support, publicize and back the teams of Bloomfield. These are the people who work behind the scenes to insure the action out front will be a success. If problems arise that affect the team or cheerleaders the group goes into action to clear it up.

Drama Club

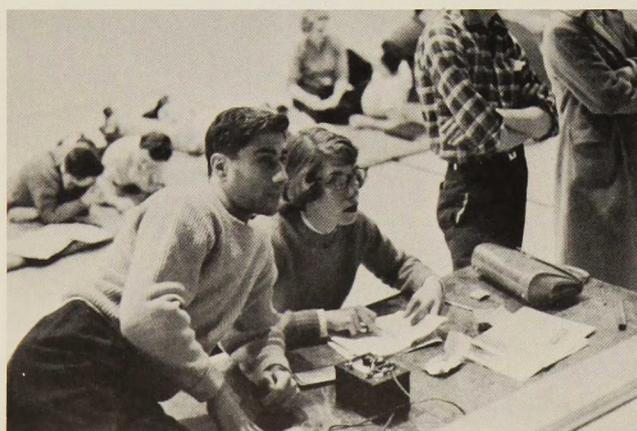

The Bloomfield College Drama club, newest organization on campus, was formed at the beginning of this school year by students who felt that the College should have a drama club, whereby students are enabled to develop their interests in dramatic productions. The members participate in both "on-stage" and the "back-stage" work. The club's president is Pete Cardel, who co-ordinates all the activities of the club along with its production. Mr. A. August Lanna, II, serves as faculty advisor and as director for the club's productions.

This year's production was entitled, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," a comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman. This hilarious story of a celebrated radio orator, lecturer, critic, who knows everyone there is to know, and his forced stay in a household in the mid-western business world offered a great deal of entertainment. The members of the club worked diligently both on and off stage to make it the success that it was.

Though soccer is not an American game by origin it has in the last few years become popular in college and high schools. Coach Nichols has been working hard with the team to create the atmosphere of sportsmanship. The team and sport are young now in Bloomfield College, but someday in the near future Bloomfield College and community will be proud of our soccer team.

Cheerleaders

Galbreath, Smith, Dunning, Patti, McNeil, Fix, Farmer.

The cheerleading squad has surely taken a big step forward during the 1959-60 season.

There were more applicants than ever before in the history of the college. The girls spent long hours in practice for the tryouts in October. When the dreaded day was over, the squad had been increased to eight instead of six as in previous years.

With tryouts over and the lively squad chosen, the girls organized themselves under the leadership of their captain, Nancy Smith and co-captain Jill McNeil. They concentrated on putting the finishing touches on the many clever routines and cheers they have displayed during the busy season.

The cheerleaders demonstrated their enthusiasm and loyal support of the team at more games than ever before. Starting out with a pep rally before the first home game, they have cheered at every home game and have even traveled to most of the away games. The highlight of the season for the girls came when they accompanied the team on the annual three-day trip to Washington, D. C., another "first" for the cheerleading squad. Good spirit is a vital necessity to any team if it is to be successful, and these girls have given freely of their time and energy to promote school spirit.

Missing from the picture above is Ruth Martin, who returned to the squad this season after a year's absence.

Golf

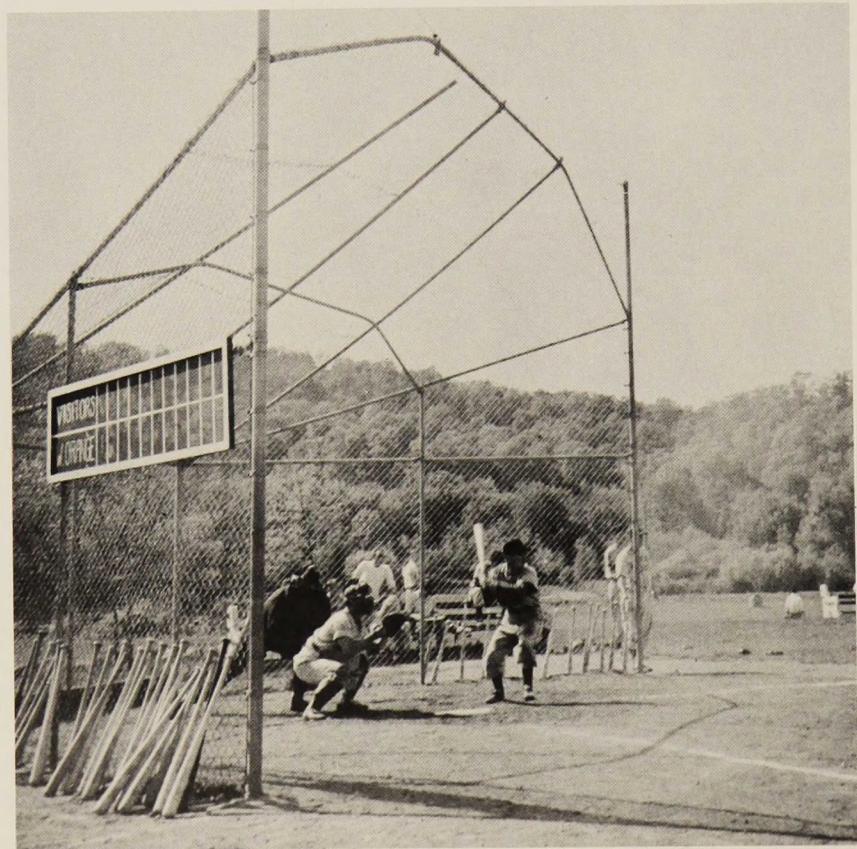

In the spring of 1957 Bloomfield College started a golf team. Hitting and chasing a little white pellet called a golf ball is not a sport of business people, but it is now a favorite sport among colleges and prep schools throughout the United States.

The team has come a long way since their beginning. They are under the able direction of Mr. A. August Lanna.

All the members of the team this year are seniors and have been on the team at least one season. Big things are in the offing for Bloomfield's Golf Team.

FAREWELL ADDRESS

After four years of studious efforts the senior class of 1960 has arrived at the final moment in its career. It has been the privilege of this class to witness the extensive physical change that has taken place during our stay here. In this time we have beheld the building of a new library, a new gymnasium, a new parking lot, a commons and a new dormitory. There is an increase in the faculty. These improvements have aided us greatly in our studies and, with the college's plans for the future, typify our theme, progress. This improved campus, in contrast with the campus to which we were introduced, is something that will remain in our minds as being emblematic of what can be done when a college of this stature has the desire to progress. In closing we should like to think that you, the underclassmen, will take up the idea of progress, and expand it for an even better future.

We now bid you all an affectionate farewell.
